

Two In The View Log

N3599

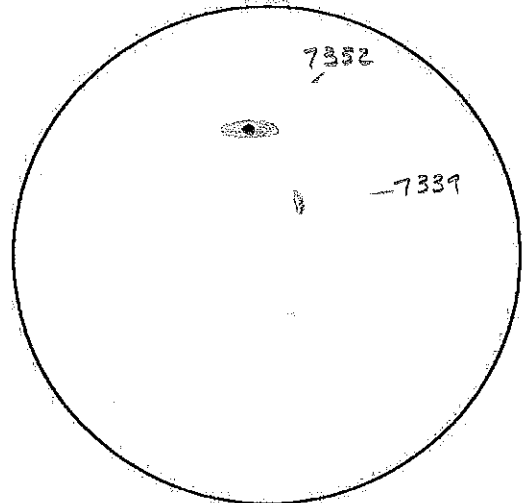

|                                       |                          |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N3605, 3607, 3608 Type: Gal  |                          |
| Constellation: Leo                    |                          |
| Date: 2/25/06                         | Time: 11:34              |
| Observing Location: Pawnee Grasslands |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                 | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 19mm / 134x                   | Focal Length: f/8        |
| Conditions: Good                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                                |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |

|                                       |                          |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N3395/N3430 Type: Gal        |                          |
| Constellation: LM                     |                          |
| Date: 3/5/05                          | Time: 22:56              |
| Observing Location: Pawnee Grasslands |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                 | Aperture: 16"            |
| EP/Mag: 150x                          | Focal Length: f/5        |
| Conditions: Good                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                                |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |

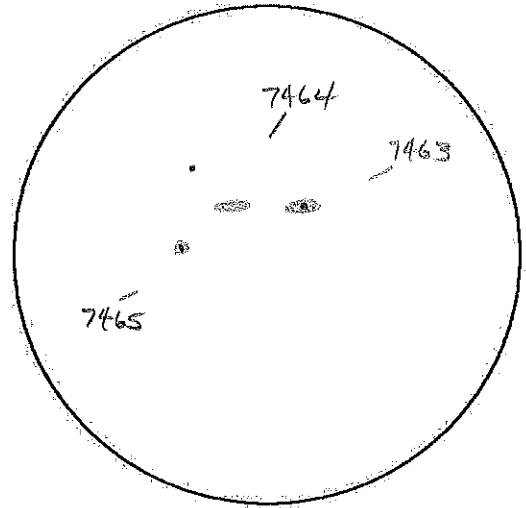

|                                       |                          |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N 7332, 7339 Type: Gal       |                          |
| Constellation: Peg                    |                          |
| Date: 9/30/05                         | Time: 22:51              |
| Observing Location: Pawnee Grasslands |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                 | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 19mm / 134x                   | Focal Length: f/8        |
| Conditions: Good                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                                |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |

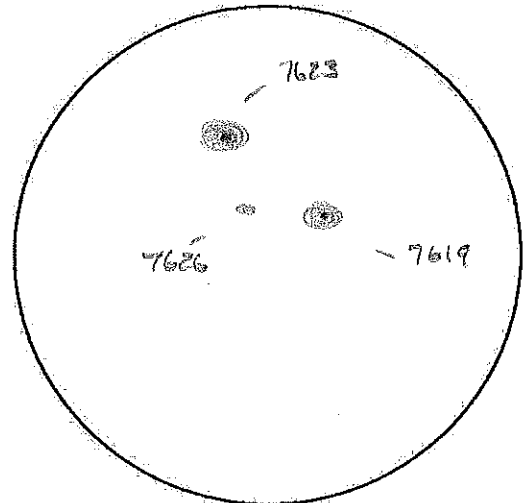

Two In The View Log

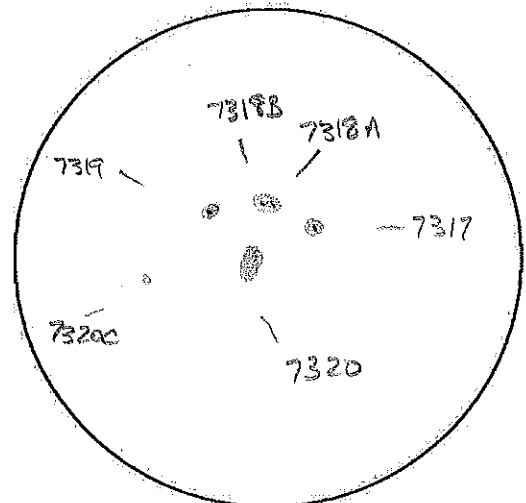

|                                       |                       |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| Subject: N7464, 7463, 7465 Type: Gal  |                       |
| Constellation: Scl                    |                       |
| Date: 9/30/05                         | Time: 22:24P          |
| Observing Location: Pawnee Grasslands |                       |
| Instrument: Newtonian                 | Aperture: 12.5"       |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/134x                     | Focal Length: f/8     |
| Conditions: Good                      | Seeing/Transp: G/Good |
| Notes:                                |                       |
|                                       |                       |
|                                       |                       |
|                                       |                       |
|                                       |                       |

|                                       |                          |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N7623, 7619, 7626 Type: Gal  |                          |
| Constellation: Peg                    |                          |
| Date: 9/30/05                         | Time: 22:41P             |
| Observing Location: Pawnee Grasslands |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                 | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/134x                     | Focal Length: f/8        |
| Conditions: Good                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                                |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |
|                                       |                          |

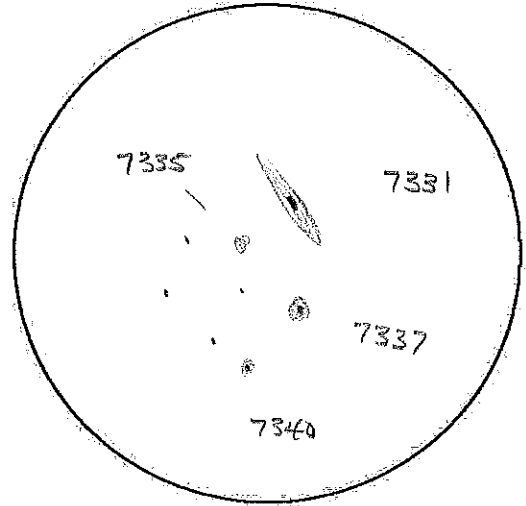

|                                     |                      |
|-------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: Stephens Quintet Type: Gal |                      |
| Constellation: Peg                  |                      |
| Date: 11/2/07                       | Time: 22:37          |
| Observing Location: Raymer, CO      |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian               | Aperture: 12.5"      |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/134x                   | Focal Length: f/8    |
| Conditions: OR                      | Seeing/Transp: OR/OR |
| Notes: Good                         |                      |
|                                     |                      |
|                                     |                      |
|                                     |                      |
|                                     |                      |

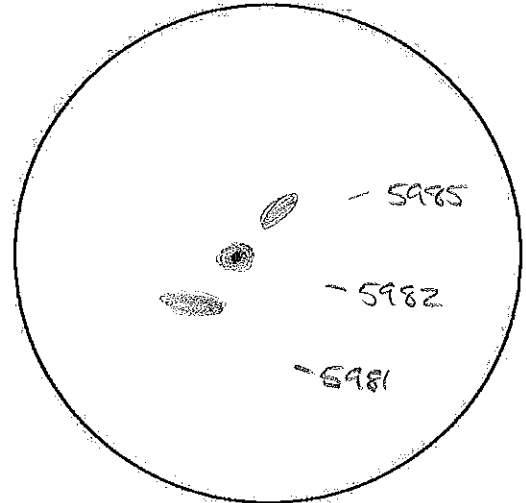

Two In The View Log

7340

|                                      |                      |
|--------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N7331, 7335, 7337 Type: Gal |                      |
| Constellation: Peg                   |                      |
| Date: 11/2/09                        | Time: 22:24          |
| Observing Location: Raymer, CO       |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian                | Aperture: 12.5"      |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/134x                    | Focal Length: f/8    |
| Conditions: OK                       | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                               |                      |
| Extra Obs                            |                      |
|                                      |                      |
|                                      |                      |
|                                      |                      |
|                                      |                      |

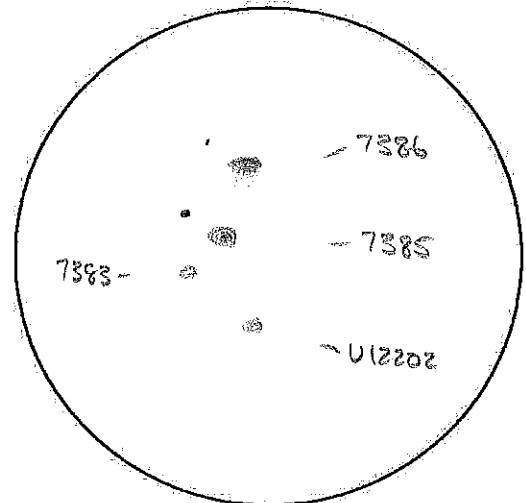

|                                      |                        |
|--------------------------------------|------------------------|
| Subject: N5981, 5982, 5985 Type: Gal |                        |
| Constellation: Dra                   |                        |
| Date: 7/23/09                        | Time: 00:24A           |
| Observing Location: Kosta, CO        |                        |
| Instrument: Newtonian                | Aperture: 12.5"        |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/134x                    | Focal Length: f/8      |
| Conditions: Good                     | Seeing/Transp: Good/OK |
| Notes:                               |                        |
|                                      |                        |
|                                      |                        |
|                                      |                        |
|                                      |                        |

UGC12202

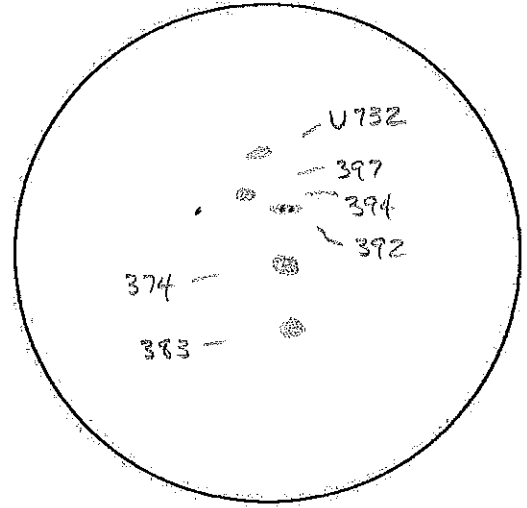

|                                      |                          |
|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N7386, 7385, 7383 Type: Gal |                          |
| Constellation: Peg                   |                          |
| Date: 10/18/09                       | Time: 00:20              |
| Observing Location: Kosta, CO        |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/134x                    | Focal Length: f/8        |
| Conditions: Good                     | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                               |                          |
| Extra Obs                            |                          |
|                                      |                          |
|                                      |                          |
|                                      |                          |
|                                      |                          |

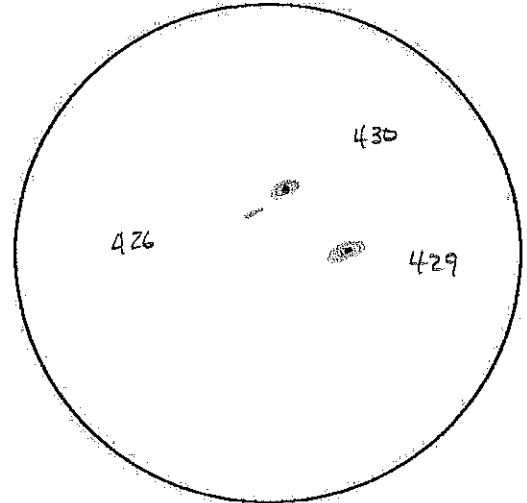

Two In The View Log

N392, 397, UGC 732

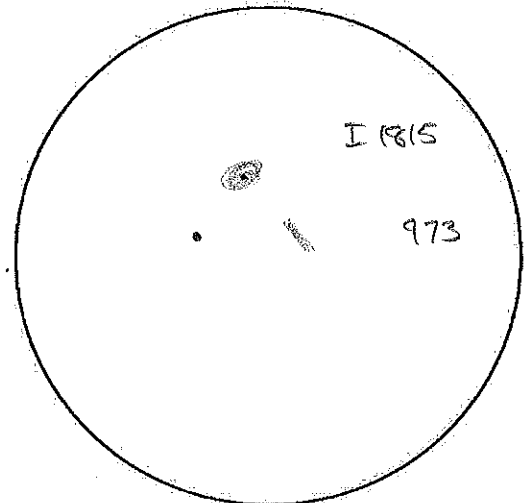

|                                 |                          |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N383, 374, 394, Type:  |                          |
| Constellation: Psc              |                          |
| Date: 9/25/11                   | Time: 00:24 A            |
| Observing Location: Okie-Tex SP |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 169x             | Focal Length: 2/8        |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                          |                          |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |

|                                   |                           |
|-----------------------------------|---------------------------|
| Subject: N430, 429, 426 Type: Gal |                           |
| Constellation: Cas                |                           |
| Date: 9/25/11                     | Time: 4:18 A              |
| Observing Location: Okie-Tex SP   |                           |
| Instrument: Newtonian             | Aperture: 12.5"           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 169x               | Focal Length: f/8         |
| Conditions: Great                 | Seeing/Transp: Great/Good |
| Notes:                            |                           |
| Extra Obs                         |                           |
|                                   |                           |
|                                   |                           |
|                                   |                           |

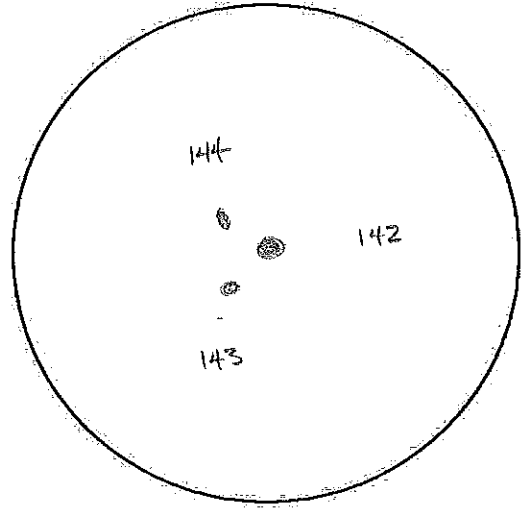

|                                  |                        |
|----------------------------------|------------------------|
| Subject: IC 1815, N973 Type: Gal |                        |
| Constellation: Tri               |                        |
| Date: 9/28/11                    | Time: 1:03 A           |
| Observing Location: Okie-Tex SP  |                        |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 12.5"        |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 169x              | Focal Length: 2/8      |
| Conditions: Good                 | Seeing/Transp: OK/Good |
| Notes:                           |                        |
| Extra Obs                        |                        |
|                                  |                        |
|                                  |                        |
|                                  |                        |

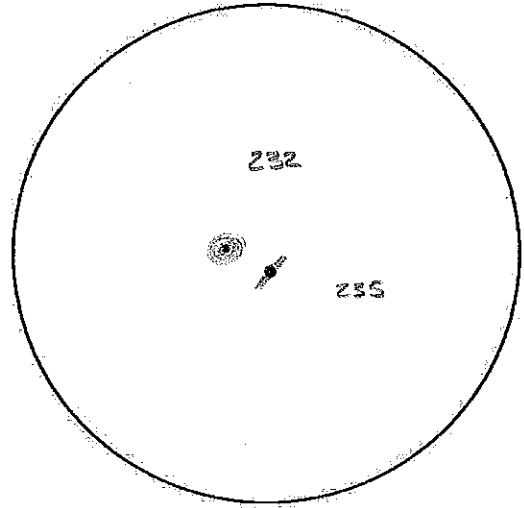

Two In The View Log

|                                 |                          |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N144, 143, 142         | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: Cet              |                          |
| Date: 1/16/15                   | Time: 19:52              |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5        |
| Conditions: Very Good           | Seeing/Transp: Very Good |
| Notes:                          |                          |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |

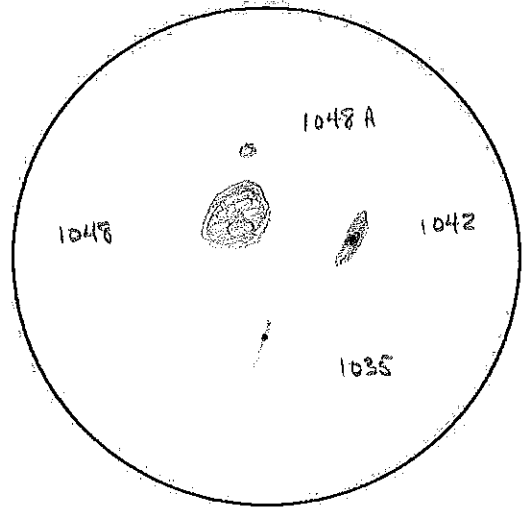

|                                 |                      |
|---------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N232, 235              | Type:                |
| Constellation: Cet              |                      |
| Date: 1/16/15                   | Time: 19:54          |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture:            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length:        |
| Conditions: Very Good           | Seeing/Transp: VG/VG |
| Notes:                          |                      |
| Extra Obs                       |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |

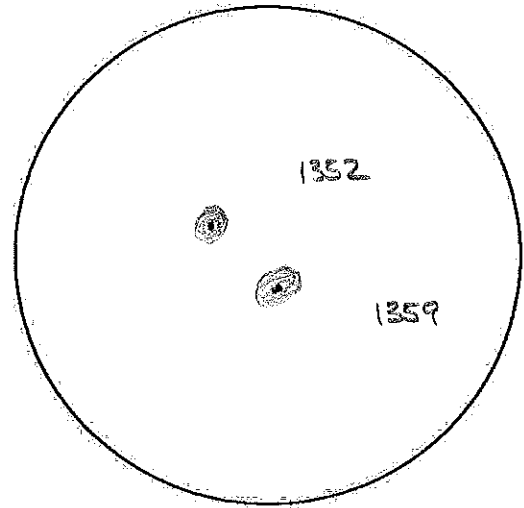

N1035

|                                 |                      |
|---------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N1048, 1048A, 1042     | Type:                |
| Constellation: Cet              |                      |
| Date: 1/16/15                   | Time: 20:34          |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"        |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5    |
| Conditions: Very Good           | Seeing/Transp: VG/VG |
| Notes:                          |                      |
| Extra Obs                       |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |

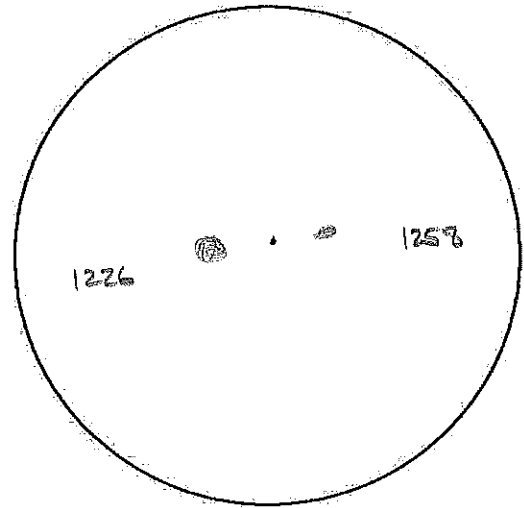

Two In The View Log

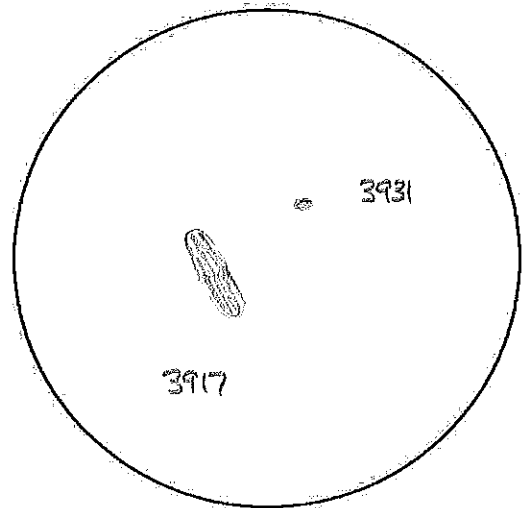

|                                 |                          |           |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N1352, 1359            |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Eri              |                          |           |
| Date: 1/16/15                   | Time: 22:01              |           |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |           |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5        |           |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                          |                          |           |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |

|                                 |                          |           |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N1226, 1258            |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Per              |                          |           |
| Date: 1/16/15                   | Time: 22:43              |           |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |           |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5        |           |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                          |                          |           |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |

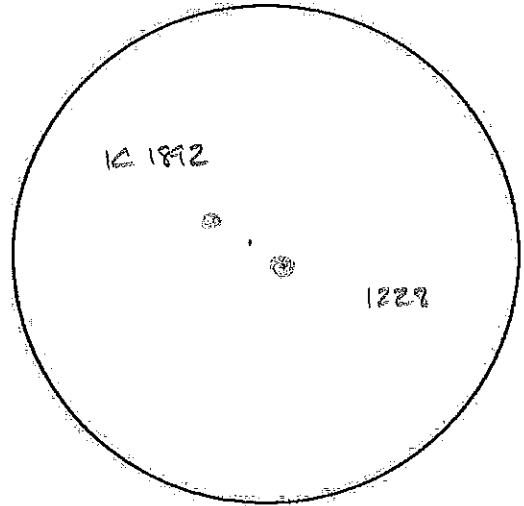

|                                 |                          |           |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N3931, 3917            |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: OMA              |                          |           |
| Date: 1/17/15                   | Time: 11:22              |           |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |           |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5        |           |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                          |                          |           |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |

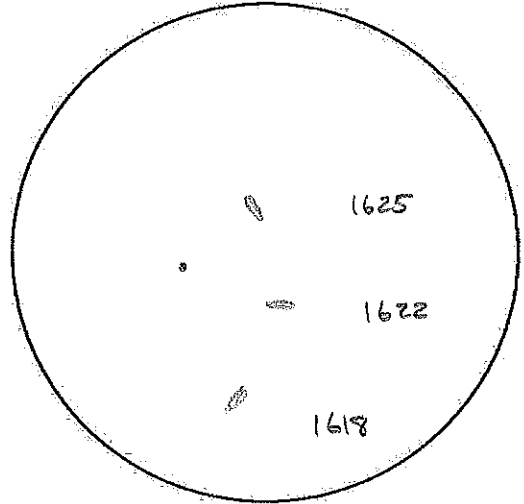

Two In The View Log

|                                 |                          |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: IC1892, N1228          | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: Eri              |                          |
| Date: 1/17/15                   | Time: 20:30              |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5        |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                          |                          |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |

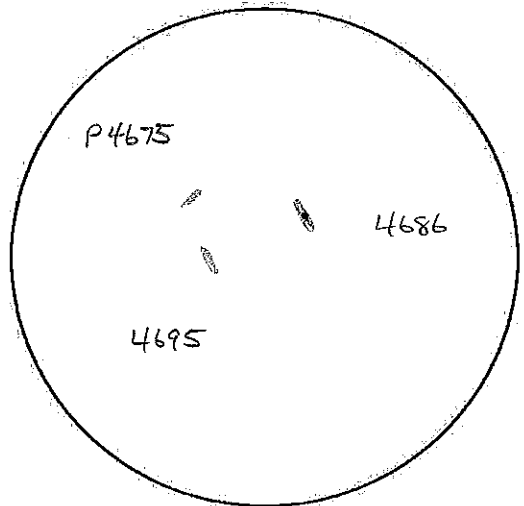

|                                 |                          |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N1625, 1622, 1618      | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: Eri              |                          |
| Date: 1/17/15                   | Time: 21:06              |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5        |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                          |                          |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |

PGC 4675

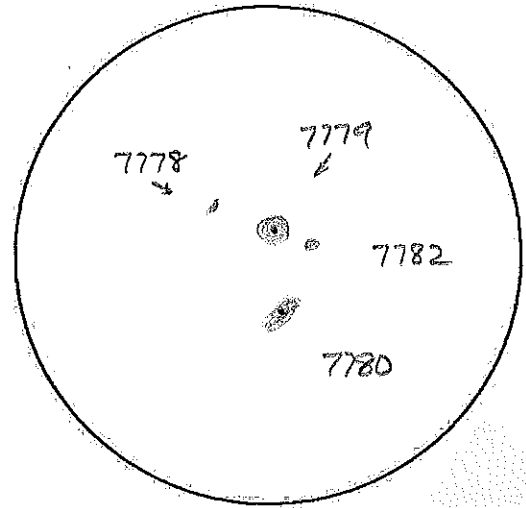

|                                 |                          |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N 4695, 4686           | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: UMa              |                          |
| Date: 1/18/15                   | Time: 1:56               |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: f/5        |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                          |                          |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |

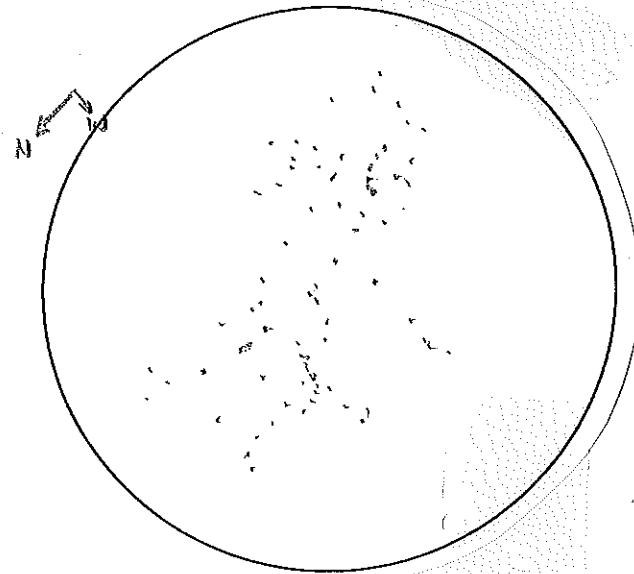

Two In The View Log

N7780, 7782

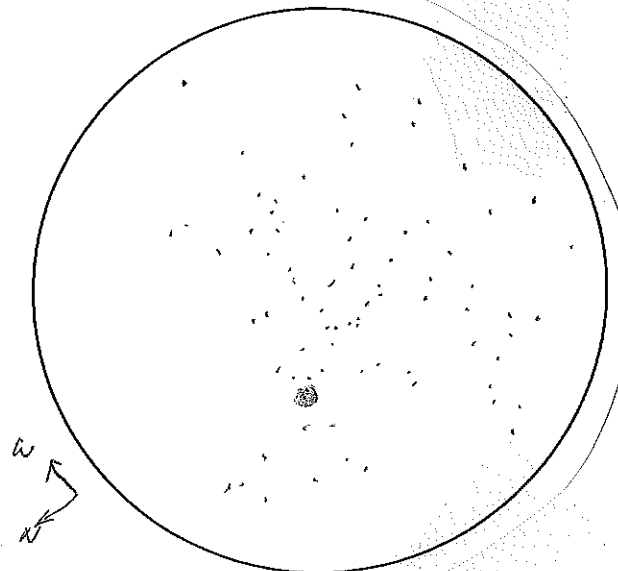

|                                 |                          |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N7778, 7779            | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: Psc              |                          |
| Date: 1/18/15                   | Time: 20:52              |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 30"            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/202x               | Focal Length: f/4.5      |
| Conditions: Good                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                          |                          |
| Extra Obs                       |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: NGC 869/884               | Type: OC             |
| Constellation: Per                 |                      |
| Date: 2/8/15                       | Time: 8:30P          |
| Observing Location: Broomfield, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm/38x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Good                   | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

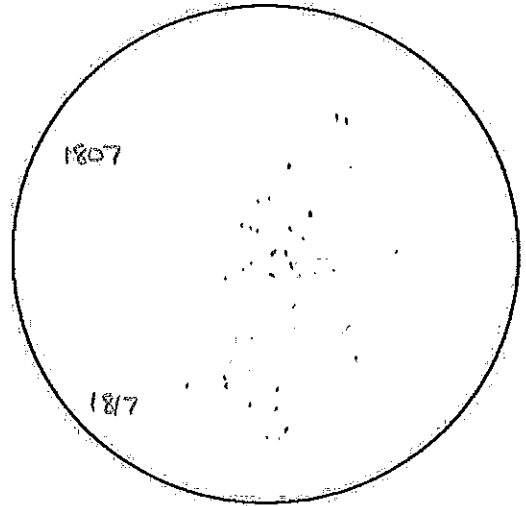

|   |                          |
|---|--------------------------|
| Subject: M46, N2438   | Type: OC                 |
| Constellation: Pup  |                          |
| Date: 2/18/15   | Time: 8:17P              |
| Observing Location: Broomfield, CO  |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian   | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/64x  | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions: Good  | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes: Really faint. Low in south just overneighbor's roof. Only see DNw/o 3 filter when it stands outnicely. |                          |
|   |                          |
|   |                          |
|   |                          |
|   |                          |

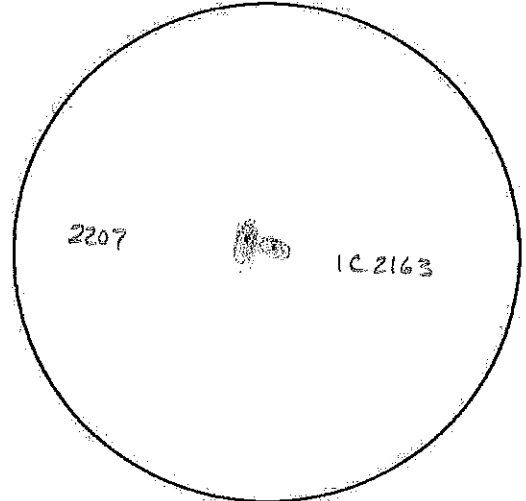

Two In The View Log

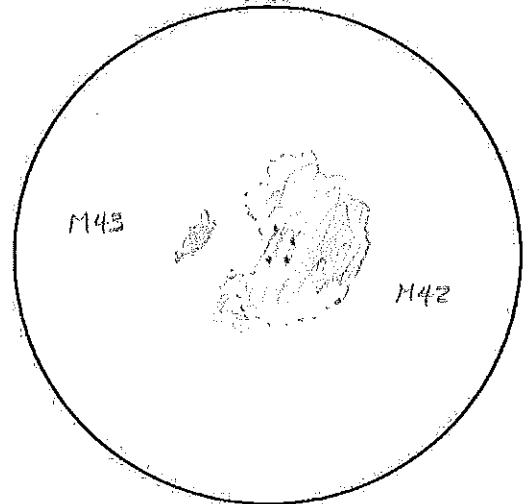

|                                  |                          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N1807, 1817             | Type: DC                 |
| Constellation: Tau               |                          |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 19:58              |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |
| EP/Mag: 22mm/115x                | Focal Length: f/4        |
| Conditions: Warm, Clear          | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                           |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |

|                                  |                          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N2207, IC 2163          | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: CMa               |                          |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 20:10              |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/282x                 | Focal Length: f/4        |
| Conditions: Warm/clear           | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                           |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |

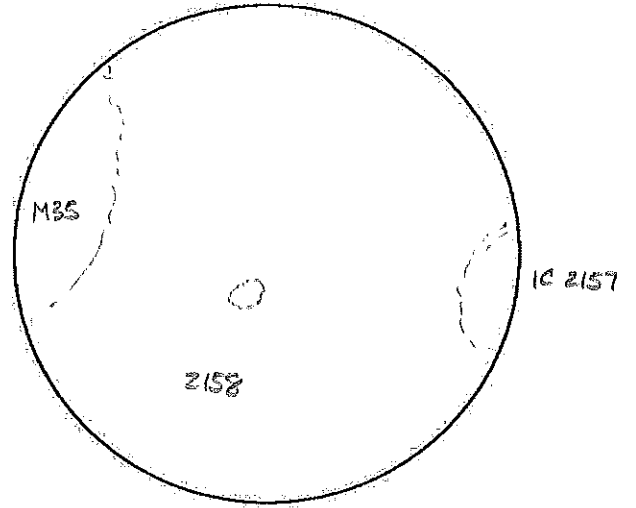

|                                  |                          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: M42, M43, Trapezium     | Type: Neb/DC             |
| Constellation: Ori               |                          |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 20:30              |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/282x                 | Focal Length: f/4        |
| Conditions: Warm, Clear          | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                           |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |

Two In The View Log

|                                  |                          |          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|----------|
| Subject: M35, N2158, IC2157      |                          | Type: OC |
| Constellation: Gem               |                          |          |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 20:49              |          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |          |
| EP/Mag: 55mm / 46x               | Focal Length: f/4        |          |
| Conditions: warm, clear          | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |          |
| Notes:                           |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |

|                                  |                          |          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|----------|
| Subject: N2252, 2244             |                          | Type: OC |
| Constellation: Mon               |                          |          |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 20:55              |          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |          |
| EP/Mag: 55mm / 46x               | Focal Length: f/4        |          |
| Conditions: warm, clear          | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |          |
| Notes:                           |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |

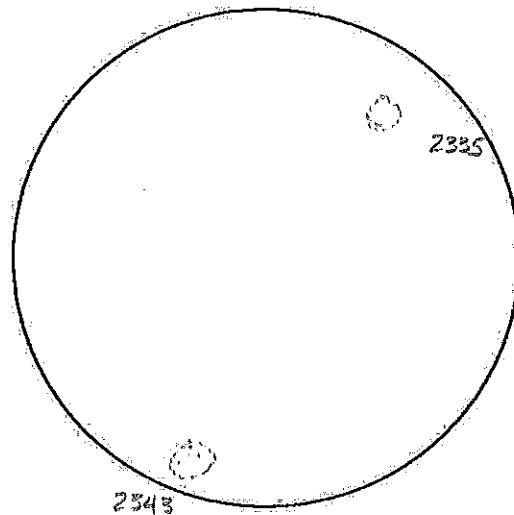

|                                  |                          |       |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|-------|
| Subject: N2251, 2254             |                          | Type: |
| Constellation: Mon               |                          |       |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 21:03              |       |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |       |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |       |
| EP/Mag: 55mm / 46x               | Focal Length: f/4        |       |
| Conditions: warm, clear          | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |       |
| Notes:                           |                          |       |
|                                  |                          |       |
|                                  |                          |       |
|                                  |                          |       |
|                                  |                          |       |
|                                  |                          |       |

Two In The View Log

|                                  |                          |          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|----------|
| Subject: N2335, 2343             |                          | Type: OC |
| Constellation: Mon               |                          |          |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 21:08              |          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |          |
| EP/Mag: 55mm/46x                 | Focal Length: f/4        |          |
| Conditions: warm, clear          | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |          |
| Notes:                           |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |

|                                  |                          |          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|----------|
| Subject: M38, N1907              |                          | Type: OC |
| Constellation: Aur               |                          |          |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 21:14              |          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |          |
| EP/Mag: 55mm/46x                 | Focal Length: f/4        |          |
| Conditions: warm, clear          | Seeing/Transp: good/Good |          |
| Notes:                           |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |
|                                  |                          |          |

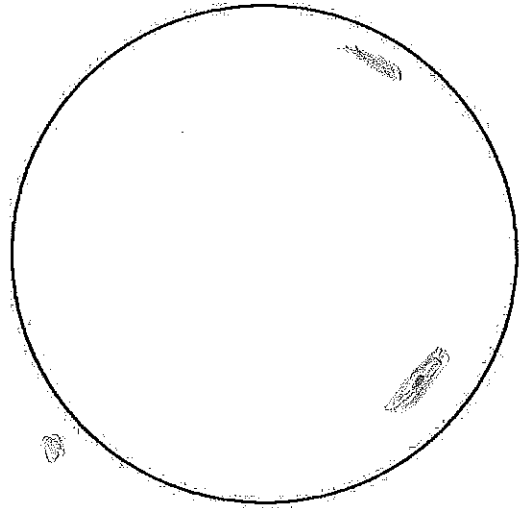

|                                  |                          |             |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|-------------|
| Subject: N2395, PK 205+4.1       |                          | Type: OC/DK |
| Constellation: Gem               |                          |             |
| Date: 3/10/15                    | Time: 21:28              |             |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |             |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |             |
| EP/Mag: 13mm/195x                | Focal Length: f/4        |             |
| Conditions: warm, clear          | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |             |
| Notes:                           |                          |             |
|                                  |                          |             |
|                                  |                          |             |
|                                  |                          |             |
|                                  |                          |             |
|                                  |                          |             |
|                                  |                          |             |

Two In The View Log

|                                 |                          |           |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: M81, M82, NG5077       |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: UMa              |                          |           |
| Date: 3/18/15                   | Time: 21:33              |           |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |           |
| EP/Mag: 55mm / 46x              | Focal Length: f/5        |           |
| Conditions: Warm                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                          |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |
|                                 |                          |           |

|                                 |                          |       |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|-------|
| Subject: M95, M96               |                          | Type: |
| Constellation: Leo              |                          |       |
| Date: 3/18/15                   | Time: 21:45              |       |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |       |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |       |
| EP/Mag: 55mm / 46x              | Focal Length: f/5        |       |
| Conditions: Warm                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |       |
| Notes:                          |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |

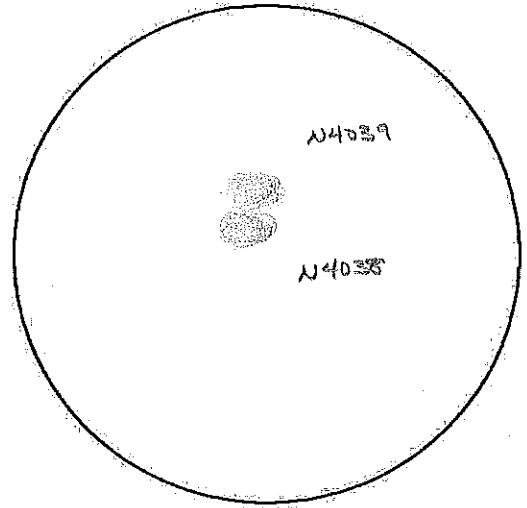

|                                 |                          |       |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|-------|
| Subject: M65, M66, NG3628       |                          | Type: |
| Constellation: Leo              |                          |       |
| Date: 3/18/15                   | Time: 22:53              |       |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |       |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |       |
| EP/Mag: 55mm / 46x              | Focal Length: f/5        |       |
| Conditions: Warm                | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |       |
| Notes:                          |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |
|                                 |                          |       |

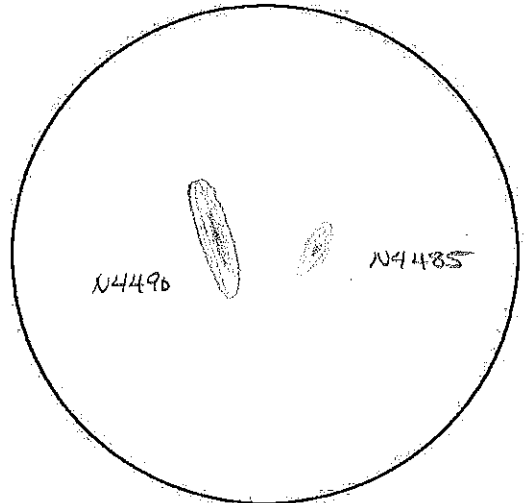

Two In The View Log

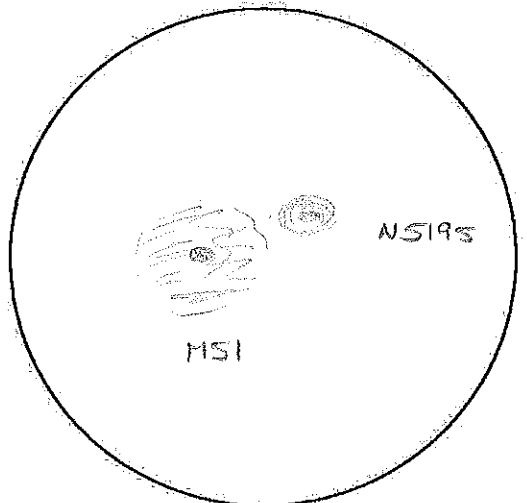

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N4038, N4039              | Type: Gal            |
| Constellation: Car                 |                      |
| Date: 4/12/15                      | Time: 9:12P          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/135x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: A bit cool out              |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N4490, N4485              | Type: Gal            |
| Constellation: CVn                 |                      |
| Date: 4/12/15                      | Time: 8:56P          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/135x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

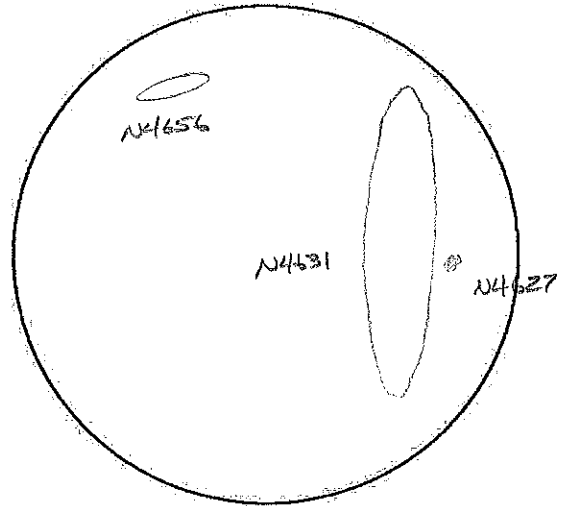

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M51, N5195                | Type: Gal            |
| Constellation: CVn                 |                      |
| Date: 4/12/15                      | Time: 10:03P         |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/135x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

Two In The View Log

N4656

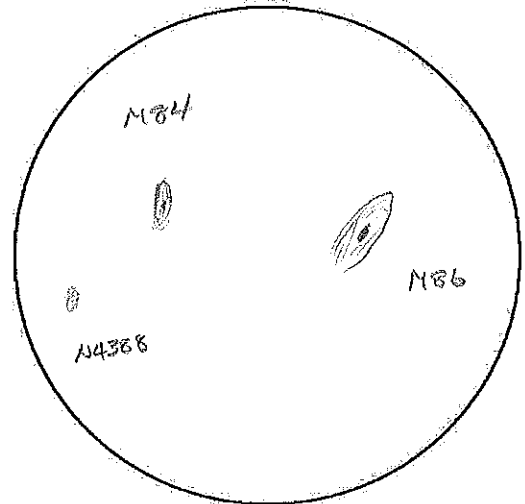

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N4627, N4631, Type: Gal   |                      |
| Constellation: CVn                 |                      |
| Date: 4/12/13                      | Time: 9:40P          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/135x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

|                                 |                      |
|---------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N4567, N4568 Type: Gal |                      |
| Constellation: Vir              |                      |
| Date: 4/12/15                   | Time: 9:30P          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail  |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/135x                | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions:                     | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                          |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |
|                                 |                      |

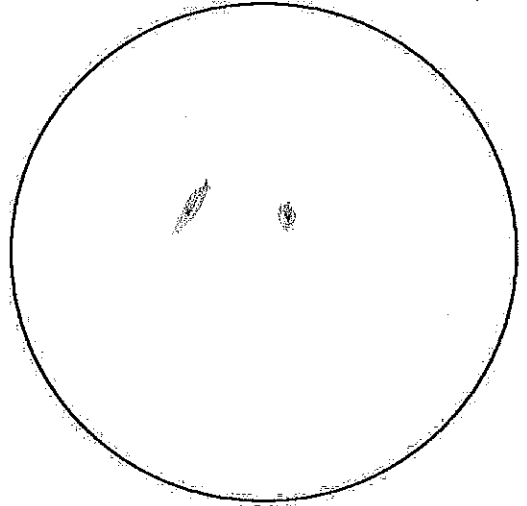

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M84, M86, N4388 Type: Gal |                      |
| Constellation: Vir                 |                      |
| Date: 4/12/15                      | Time: 8:45P          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/135x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

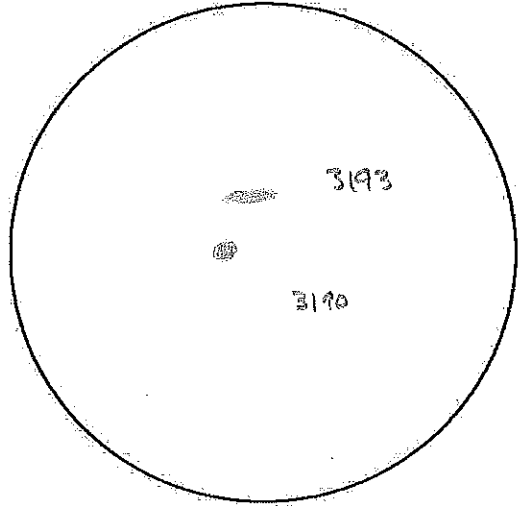

Two In The View Log

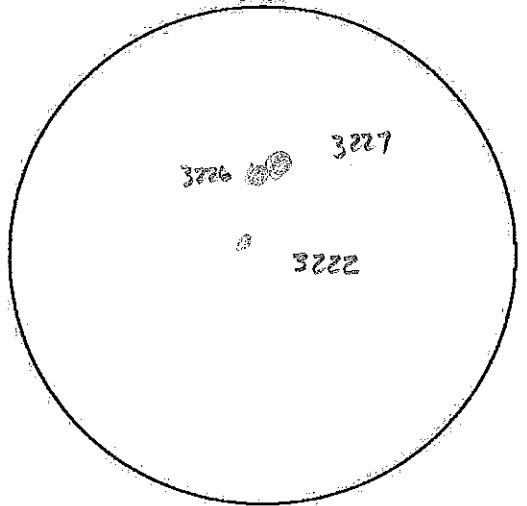

|                                  |                          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N 3166, 3169            | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: Sex               |                          |
| Date: 5/11/15                    | Time: 9:26               |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |
| EP/Mag: 13mm/186x                | Focal Length: f/4        |
| Conditions: Poor - Hazy          | Seeing/Transp: Poor/Poor |
| Notes:                           |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |

|                                  |                          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N 3193, 3190            | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: Leo               |                          |
| Date: 5/11/15                    | Time: 9:26               |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/271x                 | Focal Length: f/4        |
| Conditions: Poor - Hazy          | Seeing/Transp: Poor/Poor |
| Notes:                           |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |

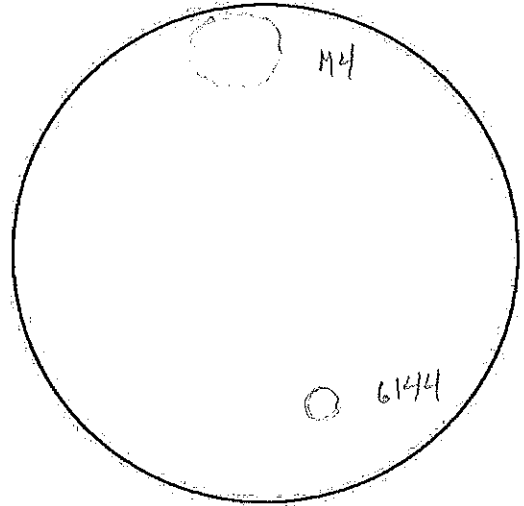

|                                  |                          |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N 3227, 3226, 3222      | Type: Gal                |
| Constellation: Leo               |                          |
| Date: 5/11/15                    | Time: 9:38               |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"            |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/271x                 | Focal Length: f/4        |
| Conditions: Poor - Hazy          | Seeing/Transp: Poor/Poor |
| Notes:                           |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |
|                                  |                          |

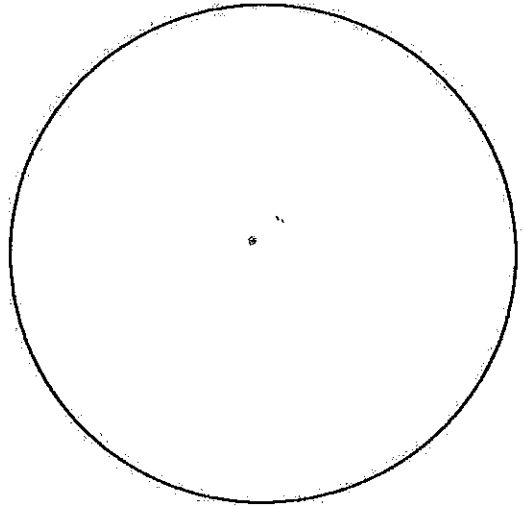

Two In The View Log

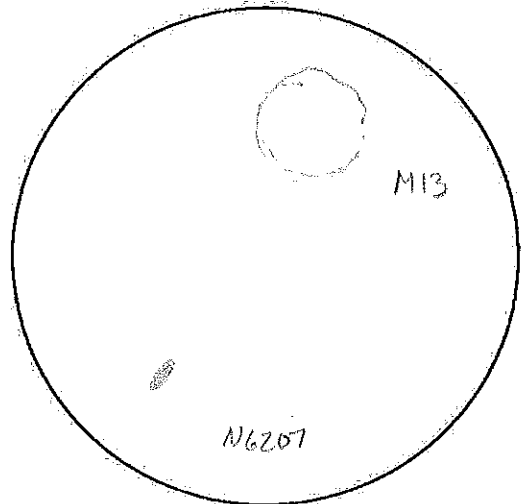

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M4/N6144                  | Type: GC/GC          |
| Constellation: Sco                 |                      |
| Date: 7/11/15                      | Time: 11:57P         |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 9"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm/38x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear + Hazy           | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: nice                        |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: Xi Sco/struve 1999        | Type: DS/DS          |
| Constellation: Sco                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:00 AM       |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm/38x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear + Hazy           | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

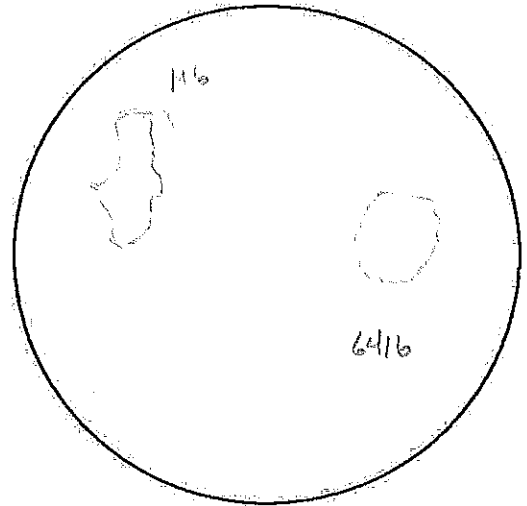

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M13/N6207                 | Type: GC/Gol         |
| Constellation: Her                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:07 AM       |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear + Hazy           | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: www. nice                   |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

Two In The View Log

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M6/N6416                  | Type: OC/OC          |
| Constellation: Sco                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:12A         |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm / 38x                 | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M7/N6453/Cr355            | Type: OC/OC/OC       |
| Constellation: Sco                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:16A         |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm / 38x                 | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

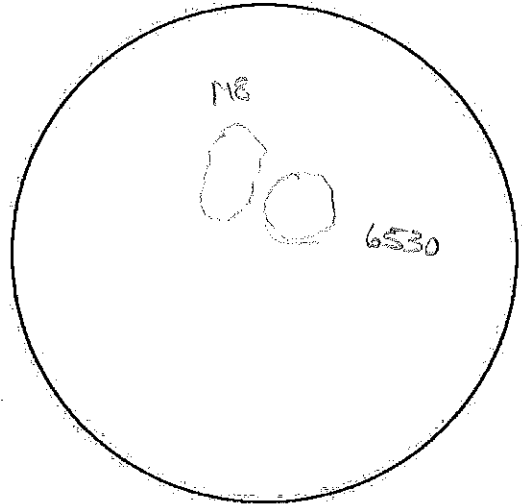

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M20/M21                   | Type: EW/OC          |
| Constellation: Sgr                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:18A         |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm / 38x                 | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

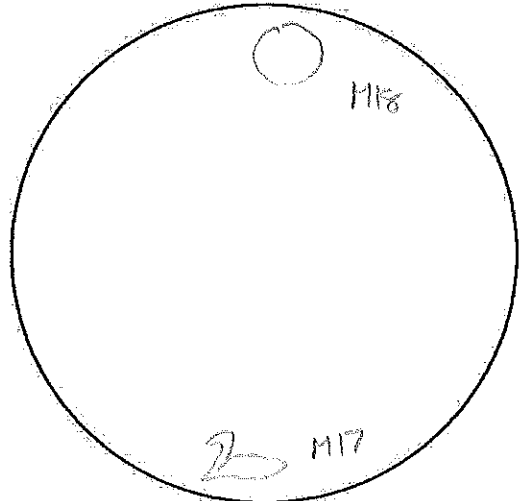

Two In The View Log

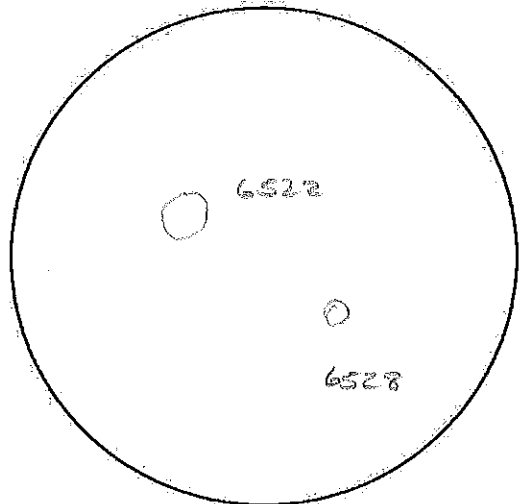

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M8/N6530                  | Type: Nb/Oc          |
| Constellation: Sgr                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:20 P        |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm / 38x                 | Focal Length: 8/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M17/M18                   | Type: Nb/Oc          |
| Constellation: Sgr                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:21 A        |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm / 38x                 | Focal Length: 8/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

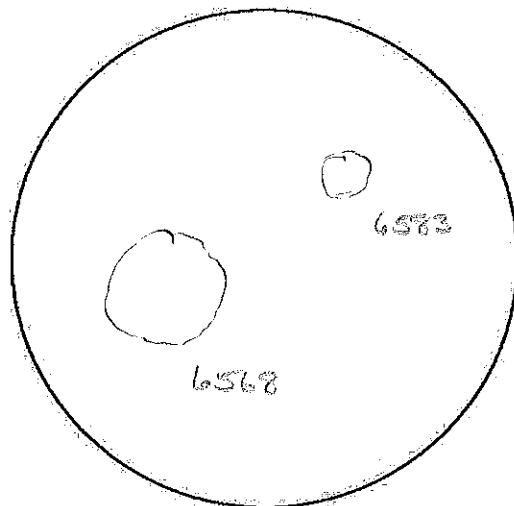

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N6522/N6528               | Type: GC/GC          |
| Constellation: Sgr                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:25 A        |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                 | Focal Length: 8/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

Two In The View Log

|   |                             |
|---|-----------------------------|
| Subject: N6568 / U6583             | Type: OC/OC          |
| Constellation: Sas                 |                             |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:29A         |
| Observing Location: Door Trail, CO |                             |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm / 38x                 | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: DR/DR |
| Notes:                                    |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |

|   |                             |
|---|-----------------------------|
| Subject: N6664 / Cr 387            | Type: OC/OC          |
| Constellation: Sas                 |                             |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12:34AM        |
| Observing Location: Door Trail, CO |                             |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                 | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: DR/DR |
| Notes:                                    |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |
|   |                             |

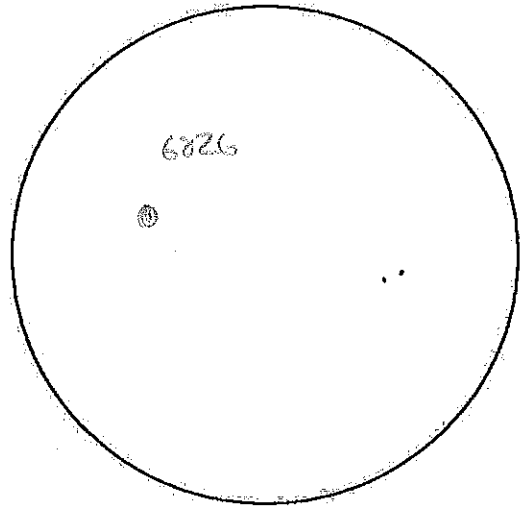

|  |                             |
|--|-----------------------------|
| Subject: 86 Mu Her  | Type: Triple Star    |
| Constellation: Her  |                             |
| Date: 7/12/15   | Time: 12:39AM        |
| Observing Location: Door Trail, CO                                |                             |
| Instrument: Newtonian   | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x  | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear   | Seeing/Transp: DR/DR |
| Notes: Didn't see 3rd unless it was very near 86 Mu at 2 o'clock. |                             |
|  |                             |
|  |                             |
|  |                             |
|  |                             |
|  |                             |
|  |                             |

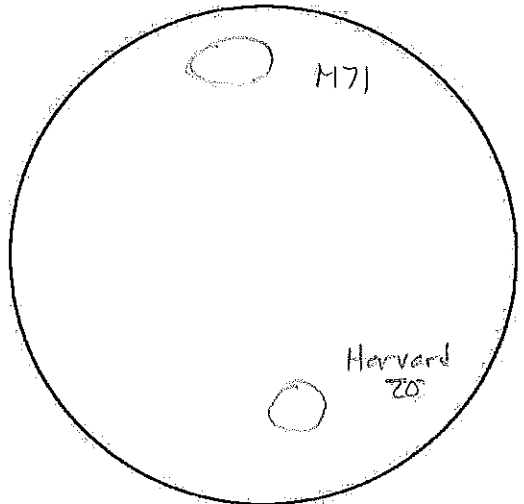

Two In The View Log

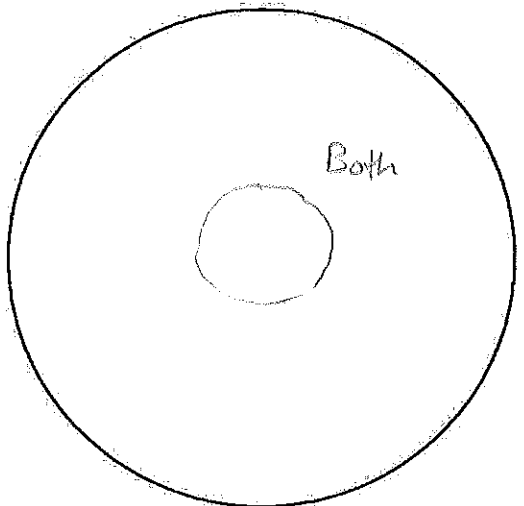

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N6826/16 Cys              | Type: PN/DS          |
| Constellation: Cys                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12145P         |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

|                                    |                      |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M71/Harvard 20            | Type: OC/OC          |
| Constellation: Sgt                 |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                      | Time: 12152 AM       |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 32mm/38x                   | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                             |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |
|                                    |                      |

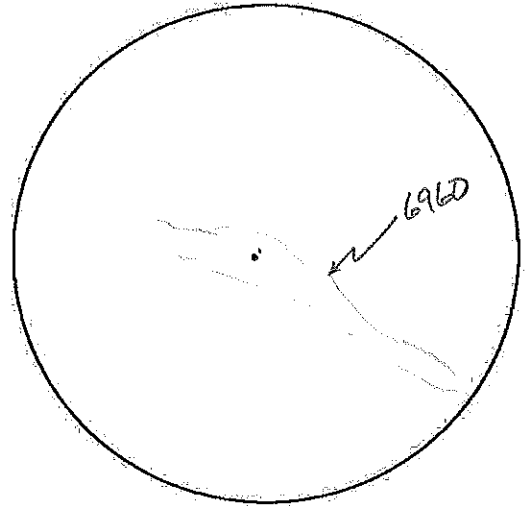

|   |                      |
|---|----------------------|
| Subject: M52/N7635  | Type: OC/Nb          |
| Constellation: Cas  |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15   | Time: 12156A         |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO                              |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian   | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x  | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Clear   | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: M52, an open cluster sits on top of N7635's nebula glow. |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |

Two In The View Log

|   |                      |
|---|----------------------|
| Subject: N6960/S2 Cyg                           | Type: SNR/DS         |
| Constellation: Cyg                              |                      |
| Date: 7/12/15                                   | Time: 1:00 AM        |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO              |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian                           | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x                                | Focal Length: 8/6    |
| Conditions: Clear                               | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: I didn't know S2 Cyg was a double. Nice. |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |

|                                 |                          |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N1042/N1035            | Type: Gals               |
| Constellation: Ori              |                          |
| Date: 1/16/15                   | Time: 20:34              |
| Observing Location: Crowell, TX |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian           | Aperture: 20"            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x               | Focal Length: 8/5        |
| Conditions: Great               | Seeing/Transp: Very Good |
| Notes:                          |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |
|                                 |                          |

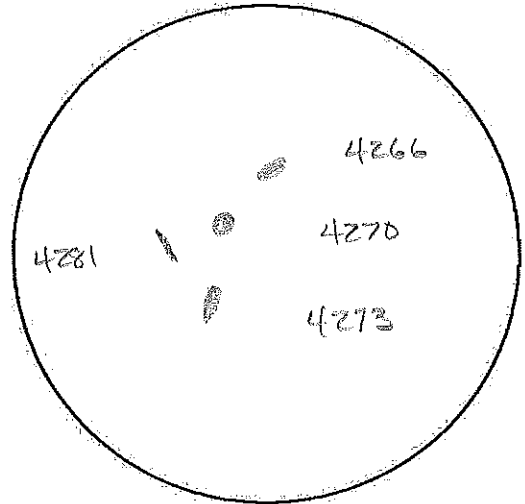

|                            |                          |
|----------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N1394, 1393, 1383 | Type: Gals               |
| Constellation: Eri         |                          |
| Date: 1/16/15              | Time: 21:57              |
| Observing Location:        |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian      | Aperture: 20"            |
| EP/Mag: 17mm/149x          | Focal Length: 8/5        |
| Conditions: Great          | Seeing/Transp: Very Good |
| Notes:                     |                          |
|                            |                          |
|                            |                          |
|                            |                          |
|                            |                          |

Two In The View Log

4266

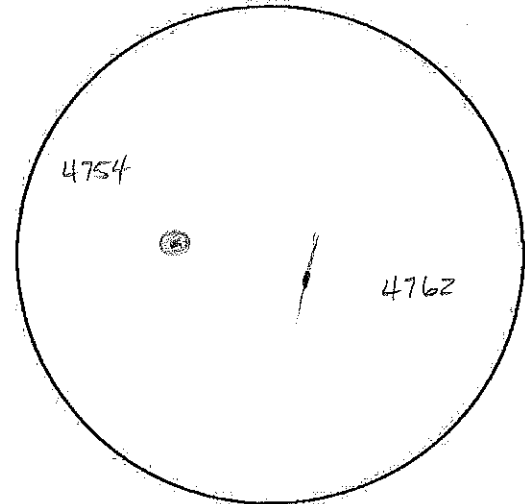

|  |                          |
|--|--------------------------|
| Subject: N4281, 4273, 4270, Type: Gals |                          |
| Constellation: Vir                     |                          |
| Date: 4/24/03                          | Time: 2:10 AM            |
| Observing Location: Sterling, CO       |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 19mm / 133x                    | Focal Length: f/8        |
| Conditions: Clear                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                                 |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |

|                                  |                      |
|----------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: M60, N4647 Type: Gals   |                      |
| Constellation: Vir               |                      |
| Date: 5/7/04                     | Time: 22:31          |
| Observing Location: Longmont, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 12.5"      |
| EP/Mag: 19mm / 133x              | Focal Length: f/8    |
| Conditions: Clear                | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                           |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |

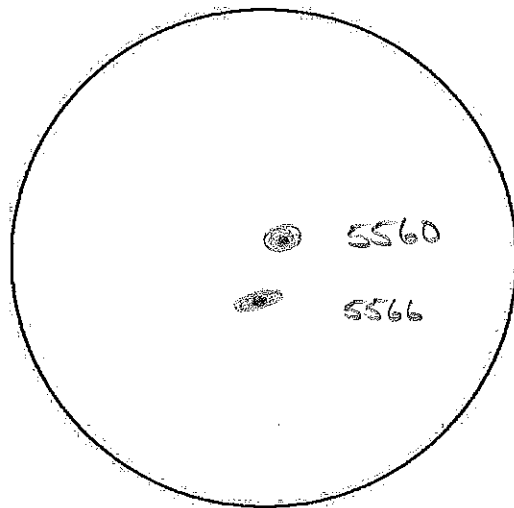

|                                  |                      |
|----------------------------------|----------------------|
| Subject: N4754, N4762 Type: Gals |                      |
| Constellation: Vir               |                      |
| Date: 5/7/04                     | Time: 22:18          |
| Observing Location: Longmont, CO |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 12.5"      |
| EP/Mag: 19mm / 133x              | Focal Length: f/8    |
| Conditions: Clear                | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                           |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |
|                                  |                      |

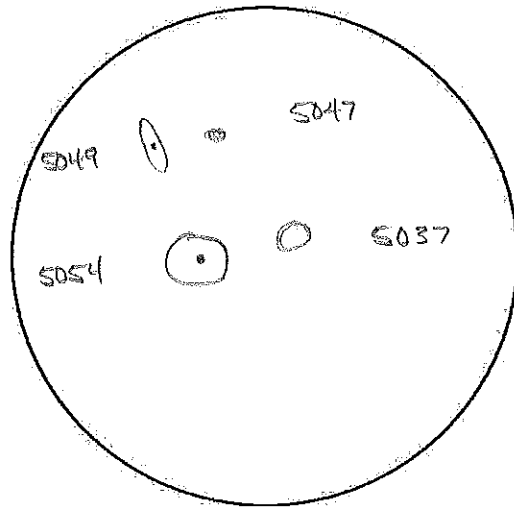

Two In The View Log

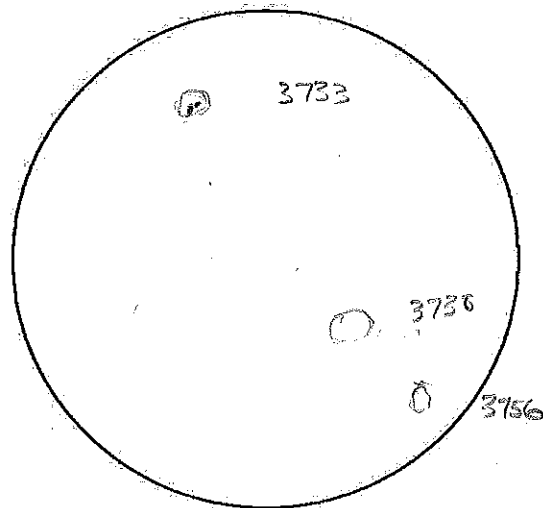

|   |                                 |
|---|---------------------------------|
| Subject: N5560, N5566 Type: Gal |                                 |
| Constellation: Vir                     |                                 |
| Date: 3/21/04                          | Time: 1:28A              |
| Observing Location: Pawnee Grasslands  |                                 |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/133x                      | Focal Length: f/8        |
| Conditions: Clear                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:  |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |

|   |                                 |
|---|---------------------------------|
| Subject: N5049, N5054 Type: Gal |                                 |
| Constellation: Vir                     |                                 |
| Date: 3/21/04                          | Time: 1:44A              |
| Observing Location: Pawnee Grasslands  |                                 |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 12.5"          |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/133x                      | Focal Length: f/8        |
| Conditions: Clear                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:  |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |

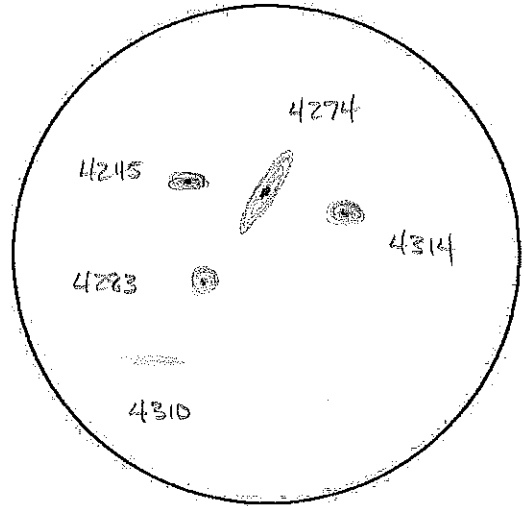

|  |                                 |
|--|---------------------------------|
| Subject: N3738, N3733, N3792 Type: Gal |                                 |
| Constellation: UMa                            |                                 |
| Date: 8/14/05                                 | Time: 21:34              |
| Observing Location: Burnthorpe, ID            |                                 |
| Instrument: Newtonian                         | Aperture: 24"            |
| EP/Mag: 13mm/195x                             | Focal Length: f/4        |
| Conditions: High Thin Haze                    | Seeing/Transp: Fair/Fair |
| Notes: 3738 was extremely faint               |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |

Two In The View Log

|  |                      |           |
|--|----------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N 4274, 4245                      |                      | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Com                         |                      |           |
| Date: 3/18/07                              | Time: 3:30A          |           |
| Observing Location: Crow Valley Campground |                      |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian                      | Aperture: 12.5"      |           |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/133x                          | Focal Length: f/8    |           |
| Conditions: Clear                          | Seeing/Transp: Great |           |
| Notes:                                     |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |

|                               |                      |           |
|-------------------------------|----------------------|-----------|
| N 5371                        |                      |           |
| Subject: N 5350, 5353, 5354   |                      | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: CVn            |                      |           |
| Date: 6/23/09                 | Time: 00:49A         |           |
| Observing Location: Renta, CO |                      |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian         | Aperture: 12.5"      |           |
| EP/Mag: 19mm/133x             | Focal Length: f/8    |           |
| Conditions:                   | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |           |
| Notes:                        |                      |           |
|                               |                      |           |
|                               |                      |           |
|                               |                      |           |
|                               |                      |           |
|                               |                      |           |
|                               |                      |           |

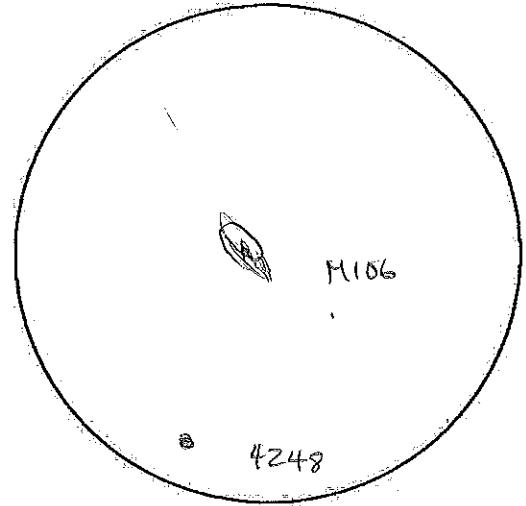

|  |                        |           |
|--|------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N 5850, N 5846, 5838          |                        | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Vir                     |                        |           |
| Date: 7/17/15                          | Time: 10:09            |           |
| Observing Location: Rocky Mtn Nat Park |                        |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 8"           |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x                       | Focal Length: f/8      |           |
| Conditions: P/C                        | Seeing/Transp: Good/OK |           |
| Notes:                                 |                        |           |
|  |                        |           |
|  |                        |           |
|  |                        |           |
|  |                        |           |
|  |                        |           |
|  |                        |           |

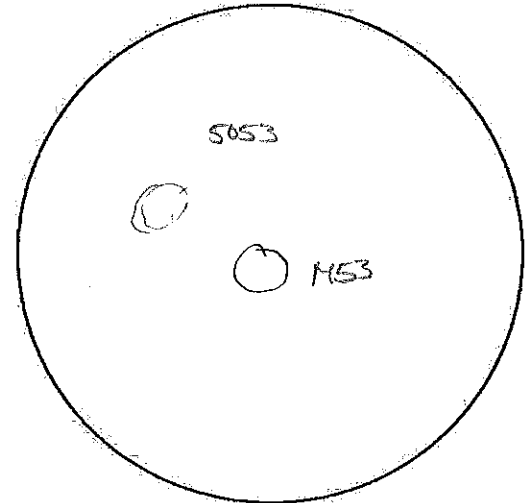

Two In The View Log

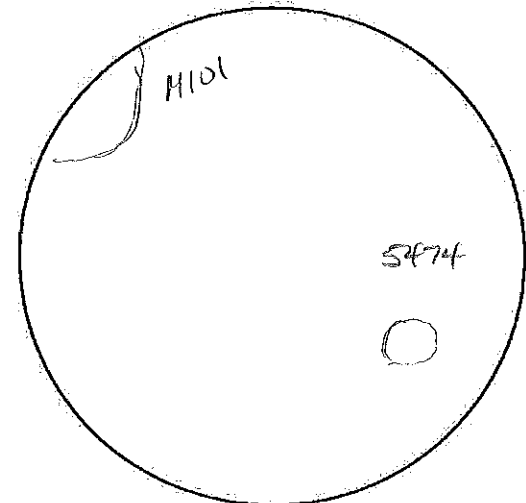

|  |                          |
|--|--------------------------|
| Subject: M106/N4248                    | Type: Gals               |
| Constellation: CVn                     |                          |
| Date: 7/16/15                          | Time: 10:00 PM           |
| Observing Location: Rocky Mtn Nat Park |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x                       | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions: Clear                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes: Companions very faint           |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |

|  |                          |
|--|--------------------------|
| Subject: M53/NS053                     | Type: Gb/Gb              |
| Constellation: Com                     |                          |
| Date: 7/16/15                          | Time: 10:06 PM           |
| Observing Location: Rocky Mtn Nat Park |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x                       | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:                            | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes: NS053 was very faint            |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |

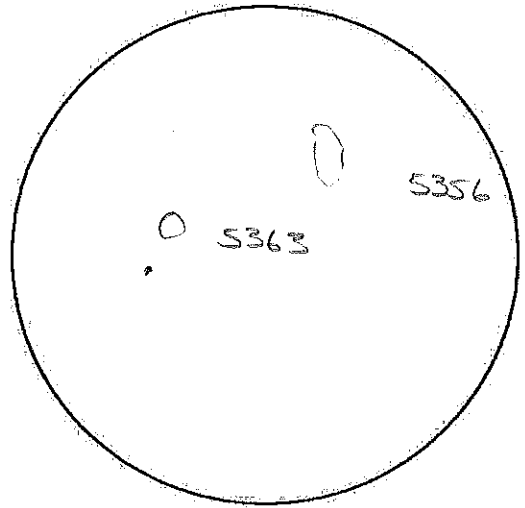

|  |                          |
|--|--------------------------|
| Subject: M101/NS474                    | Type: Gals               |
| Constellation: UMa                     |                          |
| Date: 7/16/15                          | Time: 10:20 PM           |
| Observing Location: Rocky Mtn Nat Park |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/81x                       | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:                            | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                                 |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |
|  |                          |

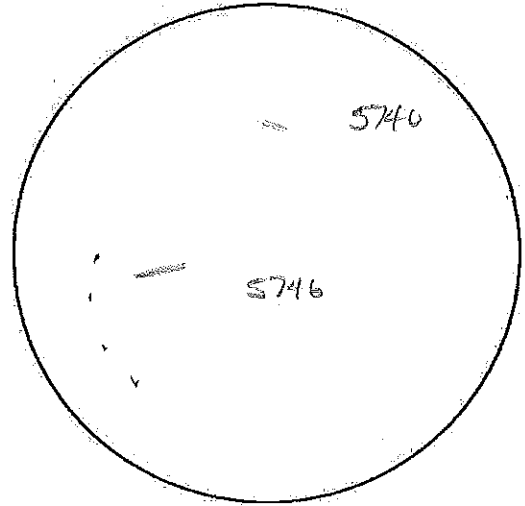

Two In The View Log

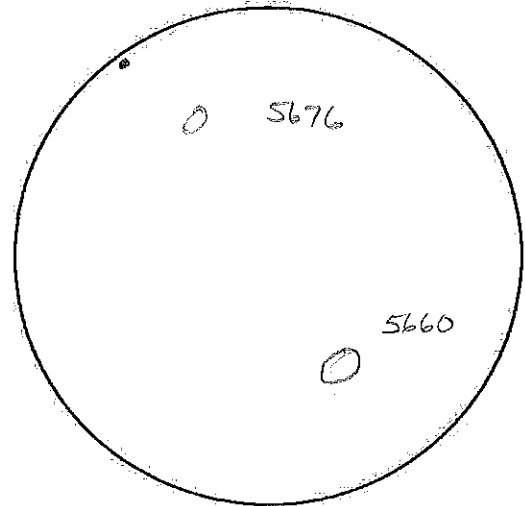

|   |                          |           |
|---|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N5363/5356                     |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Vir                      |                          |           |
| Date: 7/16/15                           | Time: 10:32              |           |
| Observing Location: Rocky Mtn Nat. Park |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian                   | Aperture: 8"             |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                      | Focal Length: 0/6        |           |
| Conditions: Clear                       | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                                  |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |

|   |                        |           |
|---|------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N5746, 05740                   |                        | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Vir                      |                        |           |
| Date: 7/17/15                           | Time: 10:03P           |           |
| Observing Location: Rocky Mtn Nat. Park |                        |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian                   | Aperture: 8"           |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                      | Focal Length: 1/8      |           |
| Conditions: P/C                         | Seeing/Transp: Good/DK |           |
| Notes:                                  |                        |           |
|   |                        |           |
|   |                        |           |
|   |                        |           |
|   |                        |           |
|   |                        |           |

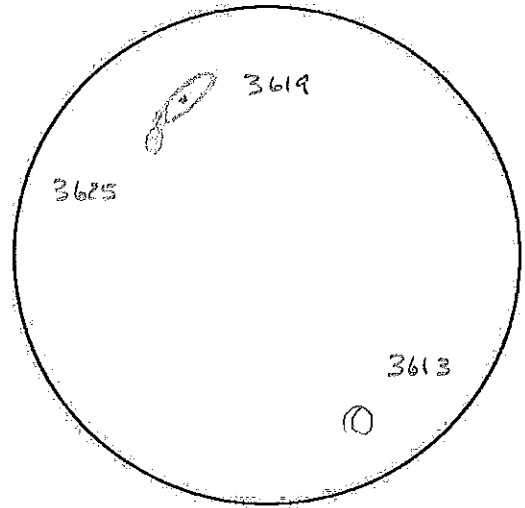

|   |                          |           |
|---|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N5676 / N5660                  |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Boo                      |                          |           |
| Date: 7/16/15                           | Time: 10:42              |           |
| Observing Location: Rocky Mtn Nat. Park |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian                   | Aperture: 8"             |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                      | Focal Length: 0/6        |           |
| Conditions: Clear                       | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                                  |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |
|   |                          |           |

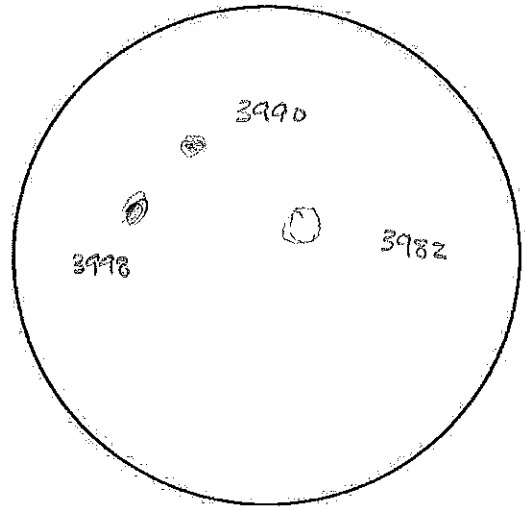

Two In The View Log

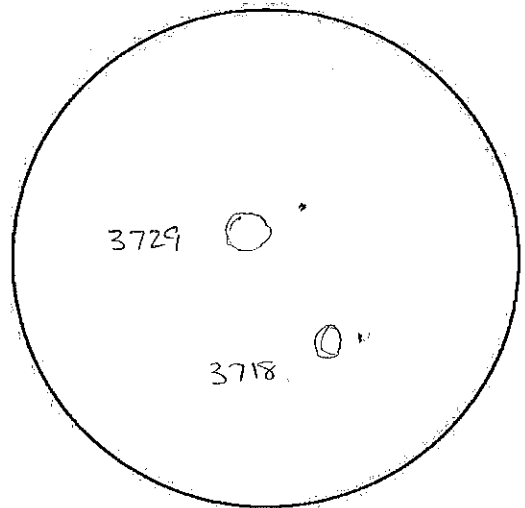

|  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Subject: N2613, 3619, 3625 Type: Gal's |                      |
| Constellation: UMa                     |                      |
| Date: 8/4/15                           | Time: 21:42          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO       |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 24"        |
| EP/Mag: 13mm / 195x                    | Focal Length: f/4    |
| Conditions: Improving                  | Seeing/Transp: DL/DK |
| Notes:                                 |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |

|  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Subject: N3990, 3998, 3982 Type: Gal's |                      |
| Constellation: UMa                     |                      |
| Date: 8/4/15                           | Time: 21:49          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO       |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 24"        |
| EP/Mag: 13mm / 195x                    | Focal Length: f/4    |
| Conditions:                            | Seeing/Transp: DL/DK |
| Notes:                                 |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |

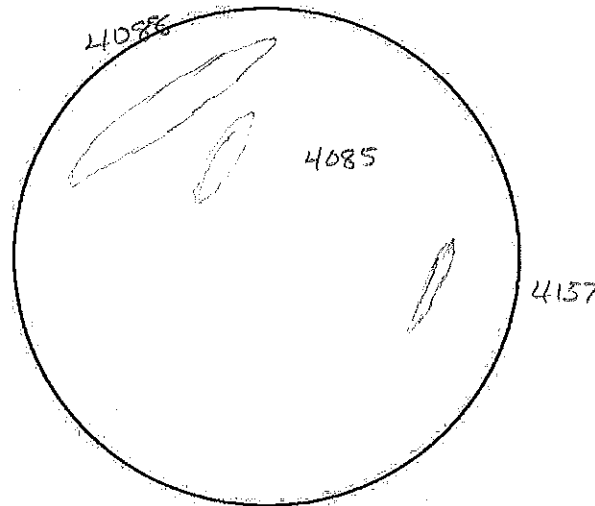

|  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Subject: N3718, 3729 Type: Gal's   |                      |
| Constellation: UMa   |                      |
| Date: 8/4/15   | Time: 21:55          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO   |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian  | Aperture: 24"        |
| EP/Mag: 13mm / 195x  | Focal Length: f/4    |
| Conditions:  | Seeing/Transp: DL/DK |
| Notes: Very faint, Bottom right bit brighter than upper left. Uniformly lit. |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |

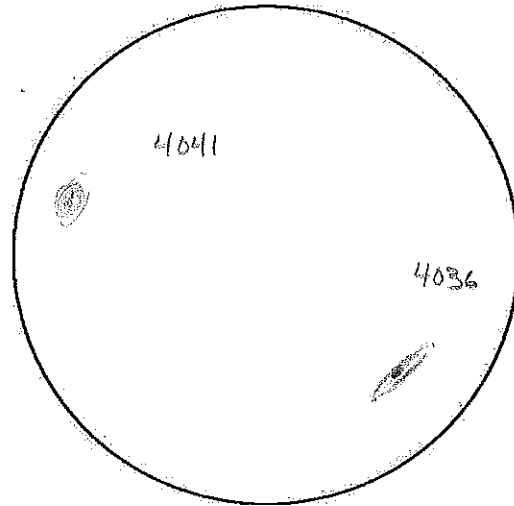

Two In The View Log

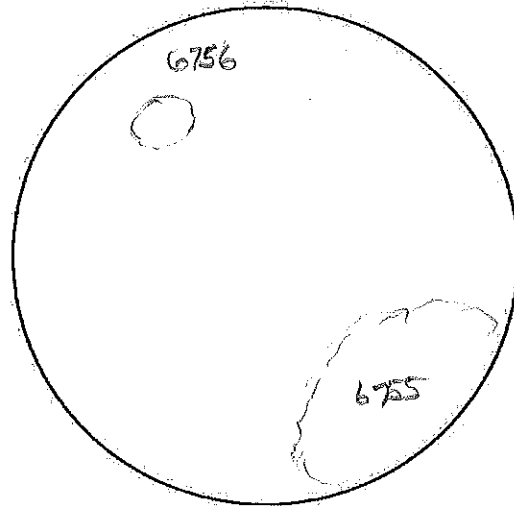

|                                  |                      |            |
|----------------------------------|----------------------|------------|
| Subject: N4157, 4085, 4088       |                      | Type: Gals |
| Constellation: UMa               |                      |            |
| Date: 8/4/15                     | Time: 22:05          |            |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                      |            |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"        |            |
| EP/Mag: 13mm / 195x              | Focal Length: 8/4    |            |
| Conditions:                      | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |            |
| Notes: All faint yet easy to see |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |

|                                  |                      |            |
|----------------------------------|----------------------|------------|
| Subject: N4036, 4041             |                      | Type: Gals |
| Constellation: UMa               |                      |            |
| Date: 8/4/15                     | Time: 22:10          |            |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                      |            |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"        |            |
| EP/Mag: 13mm / 195x              | Focal Length: 8/4    |            |
| Conditions:                      | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |            |
| Notes: Seeing has improved       |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |
|                                  |                      |            |

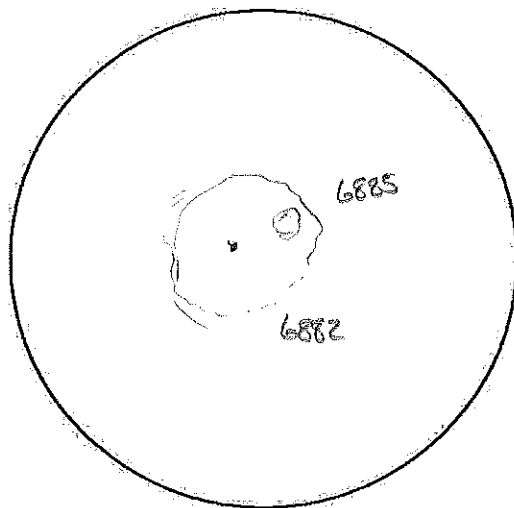

|                                  |                      |             |
|----------------------------------|----------------------|-------------|
| Subject: N6755, N6756            |                      | Type: OC/OC |
| Constellation: Aql               |                      |             |
| Date: 8/4/15                     | Time: 23:02          |             |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO |                      |             |
| Instrument: Newtonian            | Aperture: 24"        |             |
| EP/Mag: 35mm / 73x               | Focal Length: 8/4    |             |
| Conditions:                      | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |             |
| Notes:                           |                      |             |
|                                  |                      |             |
|                                  |                      |             |
|                                  |                      |             |
|                                  |                      |             |

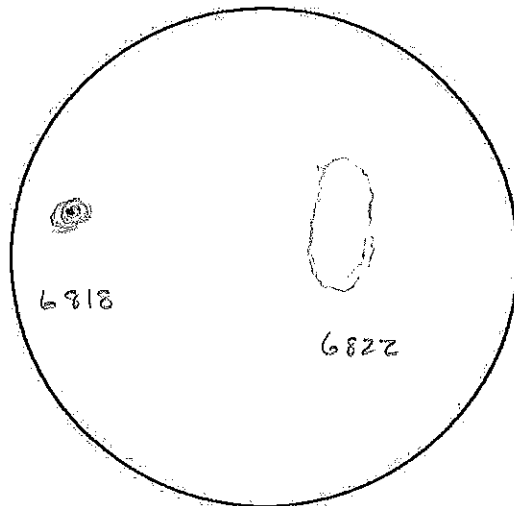

Two In The View Log

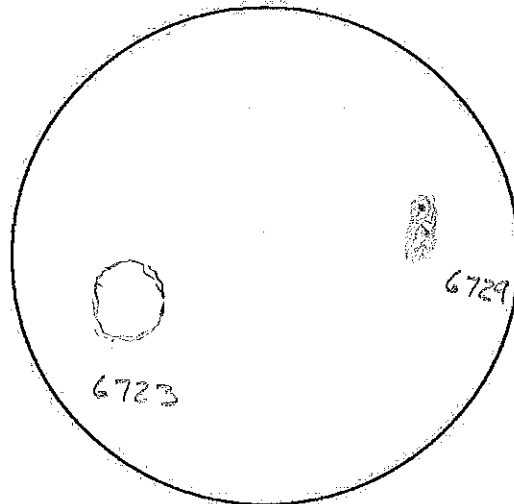

|  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Subject: N6882, N6885  | Type: OC/OC          |
| Constellation: Vul   |                      |
| Date: 8/4/15   | Time: 23:05          |
| Observing Location: Berthoud, CO   |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian  | Aperture: 24"        |
| EP/Mag: 35mm/73x   | Focal Length: f/4    |
| Conditions: Not Bad  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: It was hard to tell 6885 from 6882 but I saw a little knot of stars that matched a picture I had! |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |

|   |                      |
|---|----------------------|
| Subject: N6918 / 6822                                   | Type: PN/Gal         |
| Constellation: Sag                                      |                      |
| Date: 8/13/15   | Time: 21:05          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO                      |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian                                   | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 9mm/135x  | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Hazy  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: Clouds parted in South to give me a look at this |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |

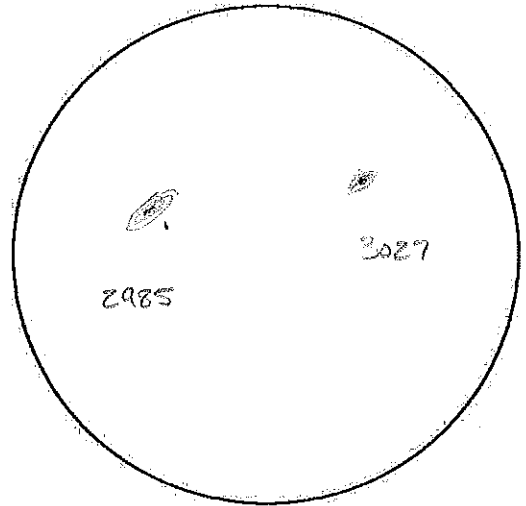

|   |                      |
|---|----------------------|
| Subject: N6723, 6729  | Type: GC/BN          |
| Constellation: CrA  |                      |
| Date: 8/13/15   | Time: 21:16          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO                            |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian   | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm/91x  | Focal Length: f/6    |
| Conditions: Hazy  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes: Clouds parted even more to give me a good look at this |                      |
|   |                      |
|   |                      |

Two In The View Log

|                                    |                          |           |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N2985, 3027               |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: UMa                 |                          |           |
| Date: 8/13/15                      | Time: 21:28              |           |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"             |           |
| EP/Mag: 9mm / 135x                 | Focal Length: f/6        |           |
| Conditions: Clear to NW            | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                             |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |

|                                    |                          |           |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N2715, 2655               |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Com                 |                          |           |
| Date: 8/13/15                      | Time: 21:38              |           |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"             |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                 | Focal Length: f/6        |           |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                             |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |

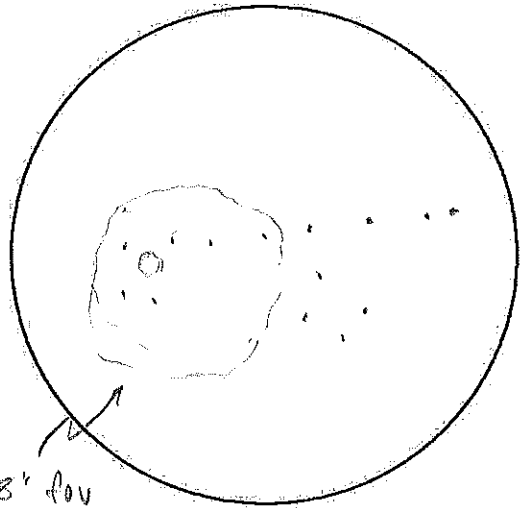

|                                    |                          |           |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N3893, 3896, 3928         |                          | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: UMa                 |                          |           |
| Date: 8/13/15                      | Time: 21:53              |           |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                          |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"             |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                 | Focal Length: f/6        |           |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |           |
| Notes:                             |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |
|                                    |                          |           |

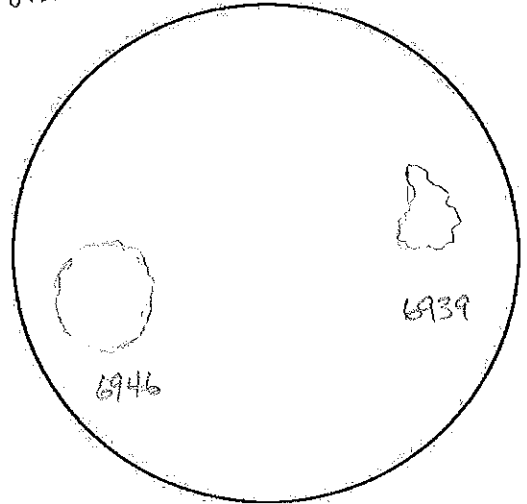

Two In The View Log

|   |                          |
|---|--------------------------|
| Subject: N6802 Cr 399   | Type: OC/OC              |
| Constellation: UMi  |                          |
| Date: 8/13/15   | Time: 22:06              |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO  |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian   | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 20x80 Binos /81x  | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:   | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes: 6802 very faint glow. In 8" w/ 32mm see eastern part of coat hanger, then 6802 nicely. |                          |
|   |                          |
|   |                          |
|   |                          |

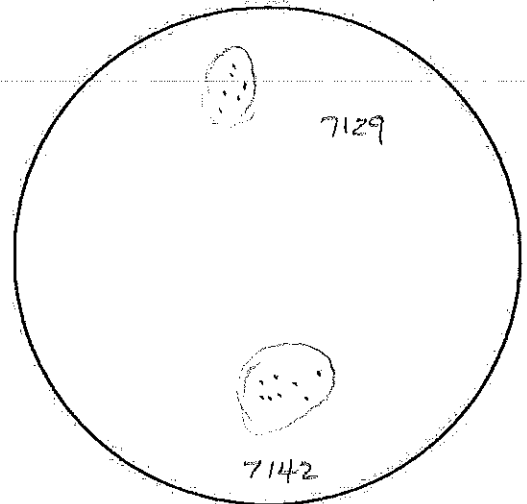

8" fov
81x

|   |                          |
|---|--------------------------|
| Subject: N6939, 6946  | Type: OC/OC              |
| Constellation: Cap  |                          |
| Date: 8/13/15   | Time: 22:15              |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO  |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian   | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 15mm /81x   | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:   | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes: Nice combination and uniformly lit & OC easy to see lots of stars. |                          |
|   |                          |
|   |                          |
|   |                          |

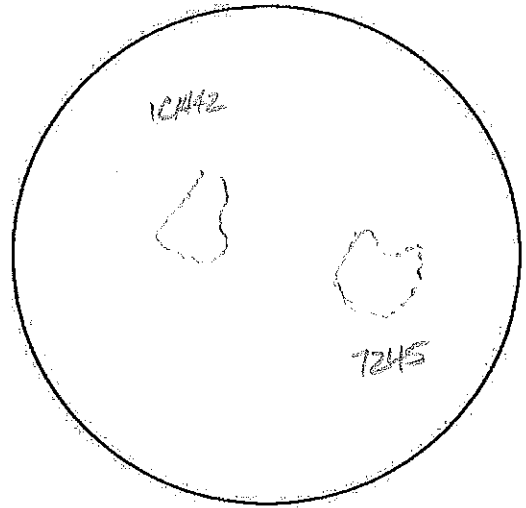

|                                    |                          |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Subject: N7129, 7142               | Type: OC/OC              |
| Constellation: Cap                 |                          |
| Date: 8/13/15                      | Time: 21:22              |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                          |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 15mm /81x                  | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:                             |                          |
|                                    |                          |
|                                    |                          |
|                                    |                          |

Two In The View Log

|   |                                 |
|---|---------------------------------|
| Subject: N7245, 101442 Type: OC/OC                                      |                                 |
| Constellation: Lac   |                                 |
| Date: 8/13/15  | Time: 22:31              |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO   |                                 |
| Instrument: Newtonian  | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x   | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:   | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes: Both in a star rich area butthe OC knot of stars stands out. |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |
|   |                                 |

|  |                                 |
|--|---------------------------------|
| Subject: N7788, 7790 Type: OC/OC |                                 |
| Constellation: Cas                      |                                 |
| Date: 8/13/15                           | Time: 22:34              |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO      |                                 |
| Instrument: Newtonian                   | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                      | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:                                    | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:   |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |

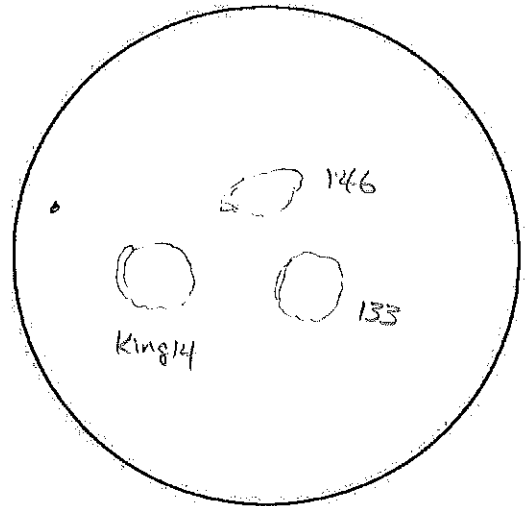

|  |                                 |
|--|---------------------------------|
| Subject: M31, M32, M110 Type: Gals |                                 |
| Constellation: And                        |                                 |
| Date: 8/13/15                             | Time: 22:37              |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO        |                                 |
| Instrument: Newtonian                     | Aperture: 8"             |
| EP/Mag: 32mm / 38x                        | Focal Length: f/6        |
| Conditions:                                      | Seeing/Transp: Good/Good |
| Notes:   |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |
|  |                                 |

Two In The View Log

|  |                      |           |
|--|----------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N133, 146, King 14  |                      | Type: OCs |
| Constellation: Cas   |                      |           |
| Date: 8/13/15  | Time: 22:44          |           |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO                                       |                      |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian  | Aperture: 8"         |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x   | Focal Length: R/G    |           |
| Conditions:  | Seeing/Transp: DL/DK |           |
| Notes: Getting Hazy in this part of sky, clouds along NE horizon forming |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |
|  |                      |           |

|   |                      |           |
|---|----------------------|-----------|
| Subject: N147, 185                          |                      | Type: Gal |
| Constellation: Cas                          |                      |           |
| Date: 8/13/15                               | Time: 22:51          |           |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO          |                      |           |
| Instrument: Newtonian                       | Aperture: 8"         |           |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                          | Focal Length: R/G    |           |
| Conditions: Hazy in area                    | Seeing/Transp: DK/DK |           |
| Notes: Both very faint, uniformly lit glows |                      |           |
|   |                      |           |
|   |                      |           |
|   |                      |           |

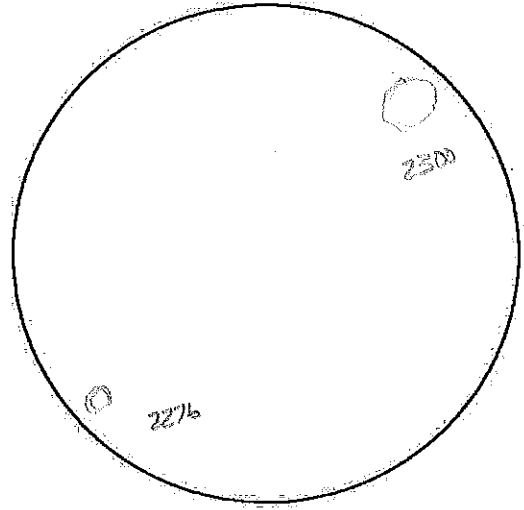

|                                    |                      |                |
|------------------------------------|----------------------|----------------|
| Subject: N457, IC 436              |                      | Type: OC/OC/DS |
| Constellation: Cas                 |                      |                |
| Date: 8/13/15                      | Time: 22:55          |                |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO |                      |                |
| Instrument: Newtonian              | Aperture: 8"         |                |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                 | Focal Length: R/G    |                |
| Conditions:                        | Seeing/Transp: DL/DK |                |
| Notes:                             |                      |                |
|                                    |                      |                |
|                                    |                      |                |
|                                    |                      |                |

Two In The View Log

|  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Subject: N2276, 2300                   | Type: Gal            |
| Constellation: Cor                     |                      |
| Date: 8/13/15                          | Time: 23:03          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO     |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian                  | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                     | Focal Length: R/L    |
| Conditions: Hazy                       | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:                                 |                      |
| 2276 is easy to see & 2300 very faint. |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |

|  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Subject: N891, 910   | Type: Gal            |
| Constellation: And   |                      |
| Date: 8/13/15  | Time: 23:13          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO   |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian  | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x   | Focal Length: R/L    |
| Conditions:  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:   |                      |
| 891 is faint yet easy to see. 910 is seen w/ averted vision, concentrating on area & seeing small vernal ghostly glow of it. |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |

|  |                      |
|--|----------------------|
| Subject: A1023, IC 239                                 | Type: Gal            |
| Constellation: Per                                     |                      |
| Date: 8/13/15  | Time: 23:24          |
| Observing Location: Deer Trail, CO                     |                      |
| Instrument: Newtonian                                  | Aperture: 8"         |
| EP/Mag: 15mm / 81x                                     | Focal Length: R/L    |
| Conditions:  | Seeing/Transp: OK/OK |
| Notes:   |                      |
| Nice Combo. Cloud overtook area as I was sketching it. |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |
|  |                      |

